Name	Attack/DC	Damage	Notes
Latch Slipping Tool (Shrum)	+4	1d8+2	Signature weapon / tool
Printer Whisperer	At Will	-	Signature move, roleplay / utility
Insight Checks	DC 13	Varies	Once per session, ultimate ability

Class Features

Cunning Action - Dash, Disengage, or Hide as a bonus action every round
Signature Move - Printer Whisperer: checks the one device every other tester skips, the printer, the badge reader, the forgotten network box in the corner, and almost always finds the way in hiding there
Ultimate Ability - Insight Checks: reads a room so well it borders on suspicious; knows whether someone's bluffing, lying, or about to cave before they do
Latch Slipping Tool (Shrum) - A thin metal shim slid between a door and its frame to slip a spring latch open without ever touching the lock itself, the physical-pentest version of walking past security instead of through it

Personality

Trait	In a crisis: Talking my way out of it. Known around the office as Smartass.
Ideal	"The forgotten network device is still a way in." Nothing gets a pass just because nobody remembers it's plugged in.
Bond	Whatever engagement wraps up, there's a mountain to climb or a board game to lose at with his wife waiting on the other side.
Flaw	Will absolutely trash talk mid-match, right up until he loses, which is often.

Backstory & Equipment

Backstory

Andrew's path ran from DOD civilian to government contractor before landing in the private sector, a route that left him with a sharp appreciation for fast, accessible reporting that actually gets acted on. He's built a reputation for checking the device everyone else forgets, printers included, and leaving nothing untested. Off the clock he's somewhere in the Colorado mountains, at a tabletop table, or losing graciously, sometimes, at an online game with his wife nearby.
